SSFVV Garlic Divisions — South — Nootka Rose Softneck Garlic

Nootka Rose Softneck Garlic

SSFVV Garlic Division South has chosen Nootka Rose Softneck Garlic as its primary crop.

“Softneck cultivars...yield a greater number of cloves and a generally larger bulb. Usually softneck varieties produce between eight and twenty cloves per bulb, while some cultivars contain cloves numbering in the high thirties.

Irregular in shape, the cloves are present in two or more concentric layers, each wrapped in their own skin. This much higher number of cloves is likely a reproductive compensation for the lack of a flowering stalk - rarely will a softneck cultivar produce bulbils. Under stressful conditions a softneck type may partially bolt and grow a short pseudo stem which will subsequently produce a small number of bulbils. These bulbils can be seen bursting out just above the bulb, or even be found clustered within the bulb itself.” www.motherearth.com
